OCLE This press release is from the collections at the Robert J. Dole Archive and Special Collections, University of Kansas.

Please contact us with any questions or comments: http://dolearchive.ku.eukudesk
CHEYENNE CLARK
CLOUD

OFFICE BUILDING
DDE 202
2715
TTEES:
LTURE

OFFICE:

CANSAS 6753

Congress of the United States House of Representatives Washington, D.C. 20515

CLOUD
DECATUR
EDWARDS
ELLIS
ELLISWORTH
FINNEY
FORD
GOVE
GRAHAM
GRANT
GRAY
HAMILTON

JEWELL
KEARNY
KIOWA
LANE
LINCOLN
LOGAN
MEADE
MITCHELL
MORTON
NESS
NORTON
OSBORNE
OTTAWA
PAWNEE
PHILLIPS
PRATT

RAWLINS
REPUBLIC
ROOKS
RUSH
RUSSELL
SALINE
SCOTT
SEWARD
SHERIDAN
SHERIDAN
SHERMAN
SMITH
STAFFORD
STANTON
STEVENS
THOMAS
TREGO
WALLACE WICHITA

MPORIA, KANSAS

FOR RELEASE SATURDAY P.M. AUGUST 12, 1967

In prepared remarks delivered before a Republican Campaign Seminar in Emporia oday, First District Congressman Bob Dole called for "....a greater number of hose who are nominal Republicans to become active Republicans, to really take a and in determining the future of their country, their state, and their own lives."

Partially defining an active Republican as "....someone who does not ignore the growing number of Democrats and Independents who share our principles and beiefs, and who works to bring them into the Republican fold," Dole recalled that just a handful more votes in a relatively few precincts across the country would have elected a Republican President in 1960."

Turning to the question of why more active Republicans are needed, the Consciences are seen and expenses and emphasized that "the power and scope of government has increased to such an extent, the activities of government at all levels, but especially at the federal level, have so proliferated that for a citizen to have a full influence on the course of his very existence, he must play an active role in the process of choosing those people who will govern him. The day is long gone," Dole continued, "when a responsible citizen could turn up his nose at politics, dismissing it as the province of 'someone else', of 'the politicians'. The decisions that are made in washington -- and in Topeka -- are simply too important to be ignored."

Stressing that Members of Congress share in the responsibility to promote Republicanism, Dole cited speeches he has made "....in about 40 states in all sections of the country...." and "in many Kansas counties, in and out of the 1st District, for the Republican ticket at the national, state, and local levels."

Dole cautioned that "....we must be careful in our zeal to promote Republicanism as we interpret it, that we channel our efforts in the right direction....
We should....avoid potentially divisive efforts made outside the regular Party framework."

Concluding by pointing out that "it is part of our responsibility as active Republicans to work....to help develop more active Republicans," Dole stated that "the stakes are too high for us not to give it our all."