WASHINGTON, D.C., JAN. 24, 1973 -- STATEMENT BY SENATOR DOLE

HIGH PRAISE FOR THE PRESIDENT

President Nixon deserves the highest praise and commendation for achieving an end to the Vietnam War and securing the foundation of a real and lasting peace in Indochina.

Since taking office, his utmost dedication and efforts have been applied to the quest for peace, and his courage, unwavering determination and vision will surely earn him a high place on the roll of the great peacemakers in history.

Not since Abraham Lincoln has an American President demonstrated such steadfast determination to pursue the difficult course which served the Nation's best interests -- even in the face of opposition from those who would have taken the easy way out for the sake of expediency or popularity.

Now that an arrangement has been reached I would hope that due recognition will be accorded to President Nixon's efforts.

It would also be refreshing if the "Bug Out Brigade" who would have settled for less than peace with honor would unite in support of President Nixon as he seeks to build a peace for generations to come.
