FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Washington, D.C. Senator Bob Dole announced today that he is meeting tomorrow morning with William E. Simon, the head of the new Federal Energy Administration.

Concerning his meeting, Dole said, "I want to discuss with him in greater detail the Administration's plans to increase the fuel allocation for general aviation and in addition review other critical fuel shortage problems in Kansas."

Numerous Kansans have contacted Dole's office in the past few weeks regarding short supplies of diesel fuel, gasoline, propane, heating oil, crude oil and other petroleum products.

"As we have begun to see, the shortage of fuel affects almost everyone's job and well-being," the Senator stated, "and I want to insure that Kansans are able to get help with their fuel problems under the new Energy Administration."
