Washington, DC

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole will address the keynote luncheon of the Nixon Center for Peace & Freedom's national policy conference, "After Victory: Defining an American Role in an Uncertain World." Senator Dole will deliver his speech on Wednesday, March 1st at noon in the Grand Ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, DC.

In a speech entitled "Winning the Peace: American Leadership and Commitment," Senator Dole will outline his view of the current world situation and challenges facing the United States, including policy towards Russia, and highlight future policy priorities for reasserting America's role internationally.

The two-day conference -- March 1 & 2 -- is co-sponsored by the new Washington-based Nixon Center for Peace & Freedom and the Richard Nixon Library & Birthplace. Other speakers include President Clinton, Speaker Gingrich, and conference chairman Henry Kissinger.
