Dear Mr. Oswald:

Thank you for writing recently concerning educational opportunities for all citizens of our country, and in particular those with disabilities.

In recent years, there has been much attention given to the educational rights of handicapped children. Likewise, more and more universities and colleges are providing assistance to disabled students, in order to let them have an advanced education.

I appreciate knowing your support for this, and assure you that I have always been an advocate of education for all persons. I encourage everyone to achieve their maximum educational level possible.

Sincerely yours,

BOB DOLE

Gentlemen & Ladies;

Am asking that the congressmen & congresswomen of the the States, 'freshen-up' on the educational opportunities offered to the public and inform them of the affairs for them. At the time, am thinking of Vocational training, & I favor college, too. I have 'mild' epilepsy, & some close friends don't think, I'd be qualified for college.

Myself, I've the feeling that, the only way to know, for sure is; to get in & try it.

Back about education, for future days, it involves everyone.

Too, would appreciate it, if it would be looked into, as, there will be benefits helping everyone, as well as certain ones.

Thank You & God Bless You all, including families & others 'not' present

God's Love
&

Sincerely,

David A. Oswald
