WASHINGTON, D.C. Nov. 7, 1969---A Kansas teenager has written U.S. Senator Bob Dole (R-Kans.) asking for a copy of President Nixon's Nov. 3 Vietnam message.

"The President is a great, but busy man," she said. "Could I possibly get a copy of the address?"

"It would be just groovy.

"I don't know if Washington ever makes copies, but it won't hurt to try," she added.

On the President's speech, the youth said, "At first, it was discouraging, and I started crying. I cried even harder when he addressed me and the other young people. He gave us hope, yet made us cautious, frustrated and happy, all in one."
