TO AP AND UPI LAST NIGHT NOVEMBER 20, 1969

Senator Dole said that Vice President Agnew's speech in Montgomery, ²⁶³ Alabama tonight presented a reasonable challenge to those who control the news to be fair and objective. While Vice President Agnew reiterated his opposition to government censorship in any form, he made it clear those screaming the loudest about censorship generally practice it themselves. For too long a time some have held a monopoly on what they believe to be ~~thei~~ a vested right to mold public opinion. I agree that Vice President Agnew has a right and a duty to speak up and out for the values in which he believes. This is a right guaranteed to every American. In the realm of politics this right exists, but by and large those who express moderate and conservative views are ignored by network radio and television and the liberal Eastern press.
