FOR RELEASE WEEK OF MAY 14, 1970

WASHINGTON, D.C. May 14 -- Twenty-two college students have been chosen as summer interns to work in the office of U.S. Senator Bob Dole.

The interns will attend committee hearings, do legislative research and conduct visitors on tours of the Capitol.

Rather than have only a few interns working the entire summer, Dole has followed the practice of dividing the internship program into three five-week sessions, thus allowing more students to work in the office.
