DOLE CONTINUES SERVICE ON AGRICULTURE, FINANCE PANELS

WASHINGTON -- Senator Bob Dole (R-Kansas) announced today that he will continue to serve on the Senate Agriculture Committee and the Senate Finance Committee during the 103rd Congress. The U.S. Senate Thursday night approved legislation confirming the membership of several Senate Committees.

"I look forward to serving once again on the Agriculture and Finance Committees, both of which are important to Kansas," Dole said. "As a senior member of the Ag Committee, I'll continue working to protect and promote Kansas farm interests in our effort to boost the farm economy and develop foreign markets for the world's finest agricultural products."

"The Finance Committee will be at the forefront of the debate over two issues of concern to every Kansas taxpayer: deficit reduction and health care," Dole added.

Dole will also continue to serve in the current session of Congress as the Senate Republican Leader. "As Senate Republican Leader, I am really involved with every committee, working with their chairmen and chairwomen, with Republicans and Democrats, on just about every issue that hits the Senate floor. I will continue to use that leadership clout for Kansas," Dole said.
