DOLE RECEIVES NATIONAL SECURITY LEADERSHIP AWARD

WASHINGTON --Kansas Senator Bob Dole today received the 1985 National Security Leadership Award for his outstanding voting record in support of a strong national defense.

The award was presented by the Coalition for Peace Through Strength, a bipartisan alliance of pro-defense leaders including 241 members of the U.S. House and Senate, and 162 national organizations.

Senator Dole told the group he was honored to receive this special recognition. "The single most important role the federal government fills is providing for the nation's security," Dole said. "And it is the job of those of us in Congress, in concert with the Administration, to guarantee that our defense is prepared and vigilant. We've fulfilled our responsibilities over the past few years. And I hope we will continue to do so."
