SENATOR DOLE VISIT WITH FORMER CUBAN POLITICAL PRISONER
ANGEL CUADRA LANDROVE

WASHINGTON -- On June 10, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole greeted Angel Cuadra, poet and lawyer, who was recently released from a Cuban prison after serving 18 years for having "worked against the security of the State." The meeting took place in Dole's office in the Capitol.

"Angel Cuadra, through his work in and out of prison, has shown that he is a man of high principle, courage, and fortitude," said Senator Dole. "Fidel Castro may have incarcerated Mr. Cuadra, but he could not hold captive his hopes, dreams and aspirations of freedom. This is one case where Angel Cuadra's pen was mightier than Castro's sword."

After their meeting, members of Senator Dole's staff took Mr. Cuadra on a tour of the Capitol, which included visits on the floor of both the Senate and House Chambers.
