SENATOR BOB DOLE
REPUBLICAN GOVERNORS
CONFERENCE
MONDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1992
LAKE GENEVA, WISCONSIN

THANK YOU. IT'S A PLEASURE
TO BE WITH YOU TODAY AS WE DISCUSS THE FUTURE OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

AND LET ME BE CLEAR IN SAYING RIGHT UP FRONT THAT IT IS THE FUTURE--AND NOT THE PAST--WHICH REQUIRES OUR ATTENTION.

JUST ABOUT A WEEK AGO
THE SENATE REPUBLICANS
HOSTED A DINNER FOR PRESIDENT BUSH IN WASHINGTON. PERHAPS YOU

READ ABOUT IT, OR SAW SOME OF IT ON THE NEWS.

IT WAS A VERY EMOTIONAL
EVENING. THERE WEREN'T
MANY DRY EYES IN THE HOUSE.
THE PRESIDENT'S REMARKS
WERE ELOQUENT AND HEART-FELT.

AND THE UNDERLYING THEME OF HIS REMARKS WAS THAT THE

TIME FOR POINTING FINGERS IS OVER. THE PRESIDENT SAID
THAT HE WAS TIRED OF THE SO-CALLED EXPERTS, TALKING
HEADS AND WASHINGTON
INSIDERS, WHO ARE CONSUMED
WITH ASSIGNING BLAME.

WE'VE ALL HEARD THE THEORIES. THE PRESIDENT WAS TOO LIBERAL. HE WAS TOO

CONSERVATIVE. IT WAS DARMAN'S FAULT. IT WAS BAKER'S FAULT. IT WAS MILLIE'S FAULT.

THE PRESIDENT WAS ABSOLUTELY CORRECT IN SAYING THAT RATHER THEN
FOCUSING ON LOSING IN NOVEMBER 1992...IT IS HIGH
TIME TO FOCUS ON DEVELOPING

A WINNING AGENDA AND A WINNING ATTITUDE FOR NOVEMBER 1994 AND
NOVEMBER 1996.

AND THAT'S JUST WHAT I'VE BEEN TRYING TO DO.

REPUBLICAN SENATORS HAVE HAD A BUSY TWO WEEKS SINCE
THE ELECTION. OUR FOUR NEW REPUBLICAN COLLEAGUES

CAME TO TOWN TO GET THE LAY
OF THE LAND. WE ELECTED
OUR LEADERSHIP FOR THE NEXT CONGRESS.

AND WE FOCUSED EFFORTS ON UPCOMING SENATE
ELECTIONS IN GEORGIA AND
NORTH DAKOTA. WE HAVE A STRONG SHOT OF WINNING IN GEORGIA, AND THE NUMBERS

ARE CLOSING IN NORTH DAKOTA.

AND WE ALSO BEGAN TO FOCUS ON HOW WE SHOULD RESPOND IN A ROLE WE HAVE NOT FILLED FOR TWELVE YEARS-
-THE ROLE OF "LOYAL OPPOSITION."

I'VE TRIED TO MAKE IT CLEAR
IN THE LAST FEW WEEKS THAT I

WISH PRESIDENT-ELECT
CLINTON WELL. REGARDLESS OF THEIR POLITICS, I BELIEVE
THE OVERWHELMING MAJORITY OF AMERICANS WANT HIM TO DO A GOOD JOB. AND SO DO I.
AND WHEN HIS PROPOSALS
WILL LEAD TO A BETTER
AMERICA, THEN I FULLY EXPECT THAT MY REPUBLICAN

COLLEAGUES AND I WILL BE ABLE TO HELP.

BUT, I'VE ALSO BEEN REMINDING THE MEDIA OF THE
FACT THAT 57% OF THE
AMERICAN PEOPLE VOTED AGAINST GOVERNOR CLINTON.
AND THAT CAN HARDLY BE DEFINED AS A "MANDATE."

SO I BELIEVE OUR ROLE IN THE SENATE--AND IN THE
HOUSE--IS CLEAR. WE HAVE TO STAND UP FOR THE INTERESTS
OF THE 57% WHO DISAGREED
WITH GOVERNOR CLINTON'S PROPOSALS AND PHILOSOPHY.

SO, YES, AS I SAID, WE WILL HELP WHERE WE CAN, BUT DON'T EXPECT BOB DOLE TO

HAND OVER THE KEYS TO THE TREASURY WITHOUT A FIGHT.

AND IF GOVERNOR CLINTON'S NEW WAY OF DOING THINGS IS REALLY A RETURN TO THE SAME OLD LIBERAL DOCTRINE OF HIGH TAXES, HIGH SPENDING,
AND OUT OF THE MAINSTREAM
VALUES, THEN DON'T EXPECT
MY VOTE.

AMERICA SUFFERED THE PAIN
OF THE LIBERAL AGENDA NOT ALL THAT LONG AGO, AND I'M NOT ABOUT TO STAND ON THE
SIDELINES AS THE "MISERY INDEX" GOES THROUGH THE ROOF.

IF ALL WE CAN DO IS STAND
ON THE SIDELINE AND CARP,
HOWEVER, THEN WE WON'T

DESERVE TO INCREASE OUR NUMBERS IN 1994 OR REGAIN
THE WHITE HOUSE IN 1996.

INSTEAD, WE MUST SUGGEST A BETTER WAY...A REPUBLICAN
WAY...OF SOLVING
PROBLEMS...OF MOVING
AMERICA INTO THE 21ST CENTURY.

I BELIEVE THESE SOLUTIONS MUST FLOW FROM OUR BASIC REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES OF LOWER TAXES, LOWER
SPENDING, FEWER
REGULATIONS, LESS
GOVERNMENT, AND A STRONG AND SECURE AMERICA.

IT IS THOSE PRINCIPLES WHICH BROUGHT US THE WHITE

HOUSE IN 1980, AND WHICH KEPT US THERE IN 1984 AND 1988. AND IT'S THOSE PRINCIPLES WHICH WILL BRING US BACK IN THE FUTURE.

IF THERE'S A SILVER LINING
TO LOSING THE WHITE HOUSE,
PERHAPS IT'S THAT IT SERVES AS A REMINDER THAT WE REPUBLICANS MUST NEVER

CONFUSE OURSELVES WITH BEING THE GOVERNING PARTY.

WE ARE THE PARTY THAT BY DEFINITION WANTS TO SHAKE
THINGS UP. WE ARE NOT THE STATUS QUO. WE ARE NOT BUSINESS AS USUAL.

AND THIS YEAR, GOVERNOR
CLINTON--WHO RAN A VERY SKILLFUL CAMPAIGN--

CONVINCED THE AMERICAN PEOPLE THAT HE WAS THE CANDIDATE OF CHANGE.

EVEN THOUGH IT WAS HIS PARTY THAT CONTROLLED
CONGRESS FOR ALMOST ALL OF
THE PAST HALF-CENTURY, HE CONVINCED THE VOTERS THAT REPUBLICANS WERE WHAT WAS WRONG WITH

WASHINGTON...THAT REPUBLICANS WERE TO BLAME
FOR GRIDLOCK.

SO NOW THE BALL IS IN THEIR
COURT. THE AMERICAN PEOPLE
EXPECT RESULTS. AND I
SUSPECT THAT PRESIDENT
CLINTON MAY HAVE TROUBLE MAKING SURE THAT THE "DEMOCRAT CHOIR" IS ALL

SINGING FROM THE SAME HYMNALS.

ULTRA-LIBERALS LIKE
SENATOR KENNEDY, SENATOR
METZENBAUM,
CONGRESSWOMAN SCHROEDER,
AND SENATOR-ELECT BOXER
HAVE WAITED A LONG TIME TO INFLICT THEIR PET THEORIES AND PROGRAMS ON THE

AMERICAN PEOPLE.

I BELIEVE THAT PRESIDENT
CLINTON'S FIRST TEST MAY BE WHETHER OR NOT HE HAS THE
WILL TO SAY "NO" TO HIS OWN
TROOPS. IF HE DOES, THEN
AMERICA WILL BE FOR THE BETTER. IF HE DOESN'T,
AMERICA WILL EVENTUALLY BE FOR THE BETTER, BECAUSE

REPUBLICANS WILL SOON BE BACK IN CONTROL. EITHER WAY, IT'S GOOD FOR AMERICA.

SENATE REPUBLICAN WILL ALSO HAVE TO GET
ACCUSTOMED TO PLAYING A DIFFERENT ROLE IN THE NOMINATIONS PROCESS--A PROCESS WHICH THE DEMOCRATS ABUSED AND

VIOLATED OVER AND OVER AGAIN.

WE WILL NOT ABUSE THE PROCESS, BUT WE WILL ASK
TOUGH QUESTIONS, AS IS OUR RIGHT AND OUR DUTY. AND,
SPEAKING FOR MYSELF, LET ME
JUST SAY THAT ANY NOMINEE WHO MIGHT HAVE WORKED FOR LAWRENCE WALSH'S IRAN-

CONTRA PERSECUTION, CAN EXPECT THE MOST RIGOROUS SCRUTINY.

WE ALL KNOW THERE'S AN IMPORTANT ELECTION COMING
UP IN JANUARY. THE PARTY
CHAIRMANSHIP INCREASES IN IMPORTANCE WHEN WE DO NOT CONTROL THE WHITE HOUSE.

I'M NOT HERE TO ENDORSE
ANY CANDIDATE, BUT I DO WANT TO GET ONE MESSAGE ACROSS.
AND THAT'S THE SIMPLE FACT THAT THERE ARE MORE DEMOCRATS THAN REPUBLICANS.

AND IT DOESN'T TAKE A MATH
WIZARD TO FIGURE OUR THAT WE'RE NOT GOING TO WIN MANY

ELECTIONS IF WE DEVOTE OURSELVES TO CREATING
LITMUS TESTS FOR PARTY
MEMBERSHIP.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY
MUST BE THE PARTY OF THE "BIG TENT." IT IS THE DEMOCRAT
PARTY THAT BANNED
GOVERNOR CASEY FROM SPEAKING AT THEIR

CONVENTION. IT IS A DEMOCRAT PRESIDENT WHO HAS BLUNTLY STATED THAT
THERE WILL BE LITMUS TESTS
FOR JUDICIAL NOMINEES. LET THEM BE THE PARTY OF EXCLUSION, AND LET US BE THE PARTY OF INCLUSION.

LET US ALL DEVOTE OURSELVES TO WORKING WITH

THE NEW RNC CHAIRMAN TO LEAD THE EFFORT TO OPEN OUR PARTY TO ALL--REGARDLESS OF RACE, GENDER, OR RELIGION.

BUT MAKE NO MISTAKE
ABOUT IT--WHILE WE MUST BE INCLUSIVE, WE CAN'T LOSE OUR IDENTITY IN THE PROCESS.

THERE IS NO APPETITE IN AMERICA FOR A FLAVORLESS

POLITICAL PARTY.

OUR PHILOSOPHY IS--AND WILL CONTINUE TO BE--
MAINSTREAM. OUR PRIORITIES
ARE THOSE OF LESS TAXES,
LESS SPENDING, LESS
BUREAUCRACY, AND LESS
REGULATION.

IT IS THESE PRIORITIES WHICH INNOVATIVE REPUBLICAN

GOVERNORS HAVE BEEN IMPLEMENTING ON THE STATE
LEVEL THROUGHOUT THE LAST DECADE.

I THINK REPUBLICAN GOVERNORS WILL PLAY AN INCREASINGLY IMPORTANT
ROLE IN SHOWING AMERICA
WHAT REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES
CAN DO. AND ONE OF MY TOP

PRIORITIES IN 1994 IS SEEING THAT THE NEXT GOVERNOR OF KANSAS WILL BE A MEMBER OF THE R.G.A.

LET ME CONCLUDE TODAY WITH A STORY ABOUT ONE OF
MY FAVORITE REPUBLICANS--
DWIGHT EISENHOWER.

THE STORY CONCERNS THE NIGHT IN 1945, WHEN GENERAL

EISENHOWER WAS WALKING ALONG THE RHINE, THINKING OF
THE CROSSING IN WHICH HE WOULD LEAD THE ALLIED
ARMIES. HE MET A SOLDIER,
AND ASKED HIM WHY HE WASN'T
SLEEPING. THE YOUNG G.I.,
WHO DIDN'T RECOGNIZE THE SUPREME COMMANDER, SAID, "I GUESS, I'M A LITTLE NERVOUS."

"SO AM I," SAID EISENHOWER.
"LET'S WALK TOGETHER, AND
PERHAPS WE'LL DRAW
STRENGTH FROM ONE ANOTHER."

THE MESSAGE OF THAT STORY IS THAT WHILE WE MAY BE CONSERVATIVE
REPUBLICANS, LIBERAL
REPUBLICANS, OR MODERATE

REPUBLICANS--WE ARE--FIRST AND FOREMOST--REPUBLICANS.

AND IF WE REMEMBER THAT..IF WE FOCUS ON THE
PRINCIPLES THAT UNITE US...IF WE WORK TOGETHER, WALK
TOGETHER, AND DRAW
STRENGTH FROM ONE
ANOTHER, THEN I AM
CONFIDENT THAT THE BEST

DAYS OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY--AND OF AMERICA--ARE YET TO COME.

GOVERNOR'S RECEPTION

Yerkes Observatory

373 West Geneva Street, Williams Bay

Sunday, 15 November, Noon - 3 pm

YOUR HOSTS

The University of Chicago

Gov. Jim Edgar, Illinois

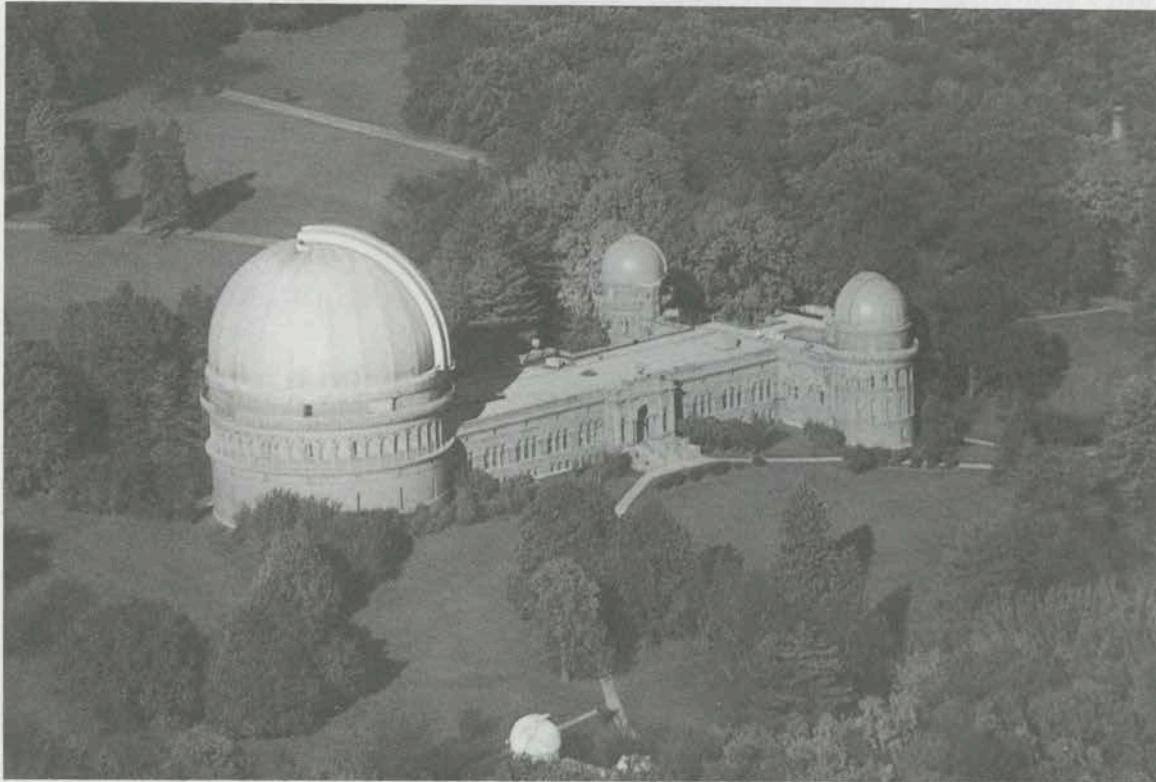

Gov. Tommy Thompson, Wisconsin

Activities, displays, and demonstrations will illustrate current programs at Yerkes Observatory, described by astronomers, staff, and students. We look forward to seeing you!

- Center for Astrophysical Research in Antarctica — a multi-institutional project to build an observatory at the South Pole
- Educational outreach — an innovative science education program for inner-city high school students
- Sloan Digital Sky Survey — a joint venture with Fermilab and other institutions to map the Universe in three dimensions
- 3.5-meter Telescope — a state-of-the-art, remotely controlled telescope now being commissioned in New Mexico
- Hubble Space Telescope — University of Chicago astronomers are studying atoms in interstellar space
- Detection of infrared light with NASA's airborne observatory — mapping clouds of interstellar dust at invisible wavelengths
- The world-famous 40-inch refracting telescope, largest of its type — measuring the motions of stars
- Powerful lasers and "artificial stars" — technological development to enable sharper images
- Electronics and optical assembly laboratories — behind-the-scenes look at the Yerkes instrumentation facilities

VISITING HOURS

Saturdays, October through May,
10:00 a.m. to Noon.
Lectures at 10:15 and 11:15 a.m.

Saturdays, June through September,
1:30 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.
Lectures at 1:30, 2:15, and 3:00 p.m.

Every Saturday Yerkes Observatory offers free public tours. Visitors can see the 40-inch Refractor and operations of the dome and elevator floor. A guide will talk about the Observatory's history.

Exhibits reveal what's new in astronomy, show examples of astronomical photographs, and describe many aspects of astrophysical research ranging from that conducted from the South Pole to the stratosphere.

If there are twenty or more people in your group, please call the Director of Special Programs at (414) 245-5555 during regular business hours to arrange a special tour.

Visitors at Yerkes Observatory discover what's new in astronomy.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

Yerkes offers a variety of special programs including private tours, slide shows, observing through a telescope, and an introduction to the night sky. A fee is charged for such programs. For information, please call the Director of Special Programs at (414) 245-5555 during regular business hours.

During tours, visitors to Yerkes Observatory enter the 90-foot diameter dome to see the famous 40-inch Refractor, largest lens-type telescope in the world.

Yerkes Observatory is a major astrophysical research facility, operated by The University of Chicago's Department of Astronomy and Astrophysics. It functions as an extensive laboratory for the development of sensitive detectors and instruments for telescopes located around the world.

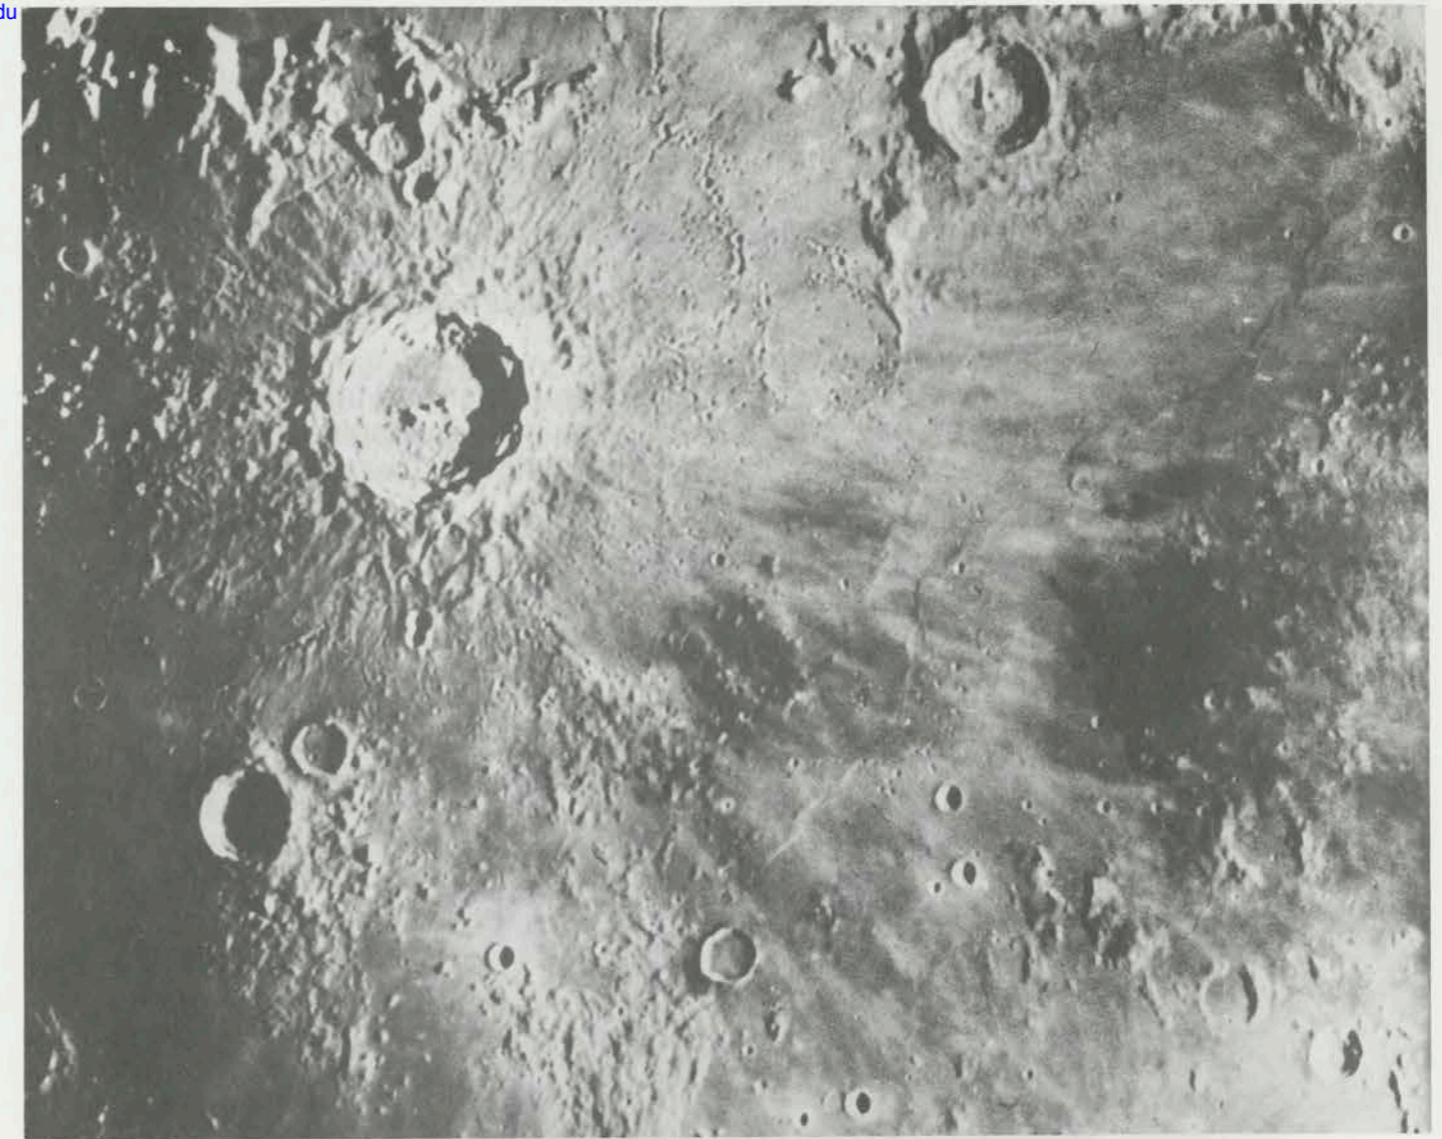

Yerkes Observatory is located in Williams Bay, Wisconsin, about 80 miles northwest of Chicago. It lies about 190 feet above the level of Geneva Lake, 1,050 feet above sea level, at latitude  $42^{\circ}34'$ , longitude  $5^{\text{h}}54^{\text{m}}$ .

On clear moonless nights, far from city lights, you can see the Milky Way overhead. Telescopes resolve the glow into thousands of stars and vast dark clouds of dust.

THE UNIVERSE AROUND US

The earliest humans viewed the night sky with awe and wonder, even as we do today, and they must have had many questions. Why does the Moon change shape nightly? How far away from us are the stars? What are those points of light blazing across the heavens in numbers almost too vast to comprehend? Why do the same patterns appear night after night, year after year, generation after generation?

A telescope reveals meteorite impact craters, mountains, canyons, and other features on the Moon which the unaided eye cannot see.

WHAT GALILEO SAW

Almost four hundred years ago Galileo looked through his telescope and saw things the eye alone could not detect. He observed mountains, valleys, and craters on the seemingly smooth Moon. He saw dark spots move across what was thought to be the featureless Sun. He saw that "wandering stars" (planets, from the Greek word meaning wanderer) were disks, not points of light.

Saturn, he noted, had ear-like features at either side of the disk (telescopes would later reveal these as rings). Four dots were visible around Jupiter; they changed position hourly. Galileo decided they were satellites in orbit around the planet, that the Moon might similarly be in orbit around Earth, and Earth in orbit around the Sun. He watched Venus go through phases like those of the Moon and deduced that they were caused by the angle of the Sun's rays reflecting off that planet, as observed from Earth. He looked at the stars in the Orion constellation and where the unaided eye could see nine stars, he saw ten times that number.

MODERN TELESCOPES

Galileo made momentous discoveries with a telescope that enlarged images about thirty times. Telescopes today are far more powerful: they permit us to gather hundreds of thousands of times more light than Galileo's telescopes.

Scientists now perceive a Universe that is vastly larger and far more complex than Galileo or his contemporaries could have imagined, and they are studying it with far larger and more complex instruments.

No longer do professional astronomers look through their telescopes; they use them instead as giant cameras to gather images electronically. Sophisticated instruments permit them to study light from unimaginably distant objects.

ASTROPHYSICS AND THE UNIVERSE

Astrophysical research increases our knowledge of the nature and content of the Universe. Our Sun, the closest star to Earth, is some 300,000 times closer than any other star. It is but one of approximately 100 billion stars in a great flattened disk of stars, interstellar dust, and glowing nebulae that we call the Milky Way Galaxy. The Milky Way Galaxy is only one of approximately 100 billion galaxies; astronomers can see distant galaxies everywhere they aim their telescopes.

For close to a century, astronomers at Yerkes have added substantially to our understanding of the Universe. They began taking photographs with the 40-inch Refractor in 1900; since then, they have accumulated tens of thousands of photographic negatives of galaxies, stars, planets, comets, the Sun, and the Moon. These negatives constitute a valuable archival research facility.

REFRACTORS AND REFLECTORS

The Yerkes Observatory 40-inch Refractor uses lenses to gather and focus light. It is similar to Galileo's telescope but is much more powerful. It was the largest telescope in the world in 1897; it is still the largest refractor.

Reflectors were developed by Sir Isaac Newton in the 17th century and use curved shallow mirrors to gather light. The largest telescope in the world is the 400-inch Keck Telescope in Mauna Kea, Hawaii. The 200-inch Hale Telescope at Palomar Mountain in California is the largest reflector in the continental United States.

The Hale Telescope and the Yerkes 40-inch Refractor owe their existence to George Ellery Hale (1868-1938), a pioneer in astrophysical research.

HALE AND YERKES

From childhood Hale was fascinated by astronomy; he was particularly interested in learning about the Sun and developed new instruments for photographing it. Following graduation from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Hale was accepted as a faculty member at the newly founded University of Chicago.

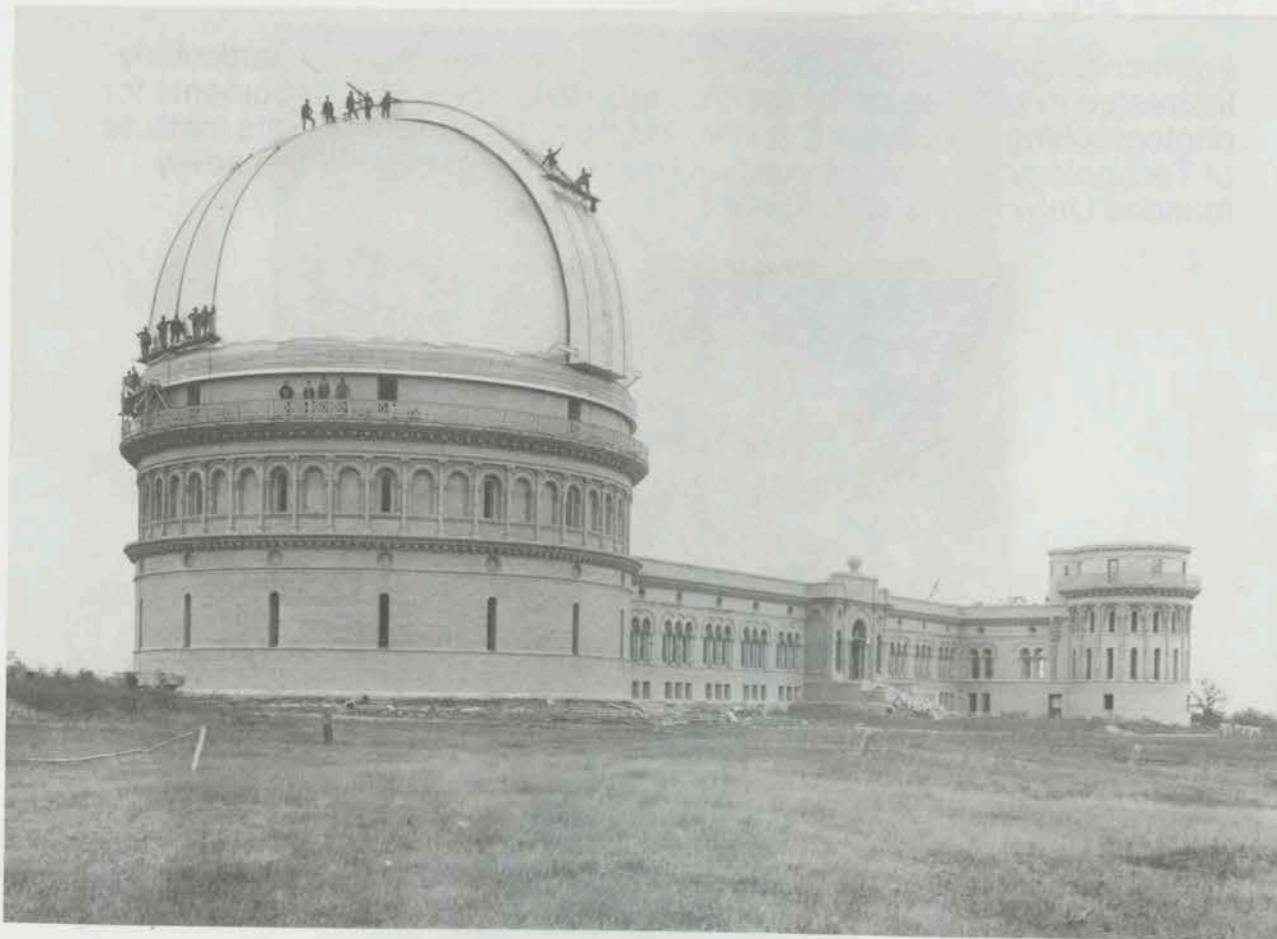

The spectroheliograph, developed by Hale, enabled astronomers to photograph the Sun in new ways. Here, solar prominences rise to heights of hundreds of thousands of miles above the Sun's surface.

In 1890 Hale learned that the University of Southern California planned to build the world's largest telescope, using glass disks cast by Mantois of Paris and polished into 40-inch lenses by Alvan Clark and Sons in Cambridgeport, Massachusetts.

When the University of Southern California abandoned the project for lack of funding, Hale urged the University of Chicago to acquire the lenses and construct the telescope and an observatory. He and William Rainey Harper, president of the University, approached transit tycoon and millionaire Charles Tyson Yerkes, who agreed to fund the facility.

SELECTING A SITE

Hale sought a location close to the University but beyond Chicago smoke and haze. In addition to studying traditional night-time objects, Hale and his colleagues wished to do solar research. John Johnston, Jr., had given the University a 53-acre tract of land, about half a mile north of Geneva Lake. Observing conditions were equally good day and night, and a railroad line already ran from Chicago to Williams Bay, offering easy access to the University of Chicago. The site was chosen and construction began in 1895.

The Yerkes Observatory nears completion, October 1896.

BUILDING THE OBSERVATORY

Warner and Swasey of Cleveland built the mounting for the telescope and a 90-foot diameter dome to house it. They also constructed a 75-foot diameter movable floor that raises astronomers to the telescope eyepiece.

Hoisting the polar axis for the 40-inch Refractor, 1896.

ORNATE DETAIL

The Observatory's architect, Henry Ives Cobb, was fond of ornamentation rooted in classic mythology. At Yerkes, he let his imagination roam: everywhere in the structure, both inside and out, the viewer finds hundreds of ornate, often playful representations of animals real and fanciful, signs of the Zodiac, phases of the Moon, and many other embellishments.

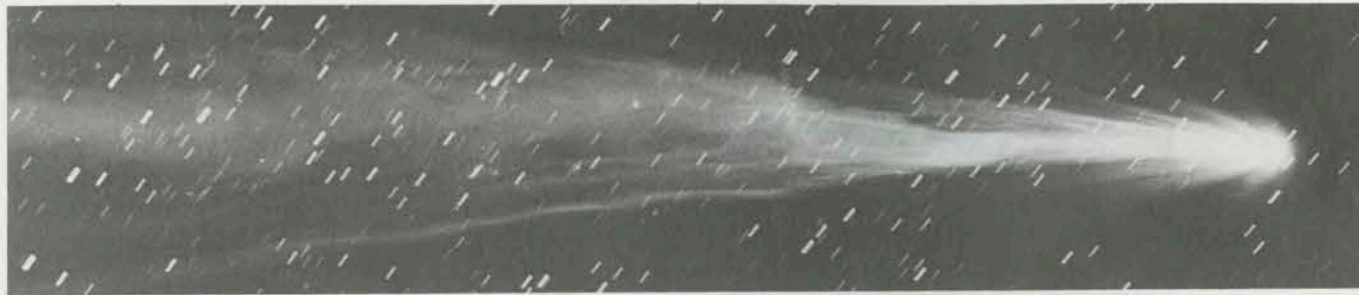

Yerkes Observatory was completed and dedicated in 1897. It was built in the shape of a cross, with two smaller domes for additional telescopes at the end of each arm.

The building and its contents constitute a fascinating example of the architecture and technological accomplishments of the late 19th century. For the astronomer, far greater fascination rests with the work that has been accomplished at Yerkes and that continues, unabated, today.

LEGACY OF RESEARCH

A listing of all the research ever done at a major observatory would encompass many volumes; the following provides a representative sample of important work at Yerkes Observatory during the last century.

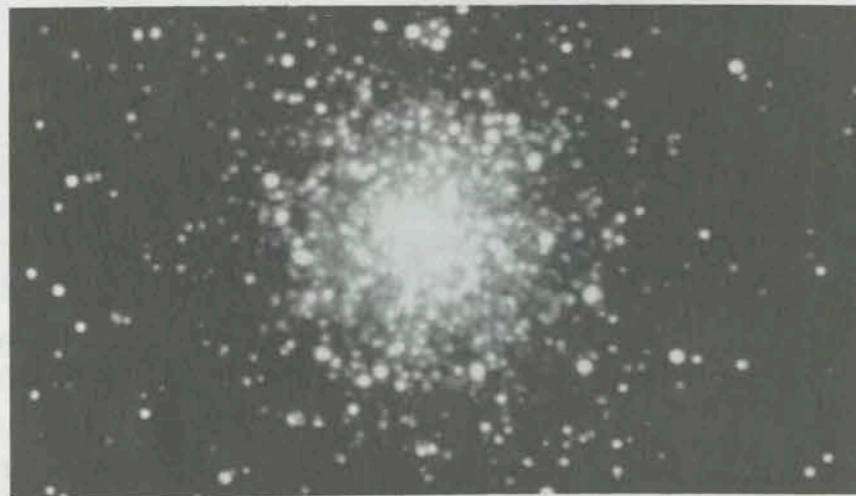

Edward E. Barnard suggested that the dark areas in the Milky Way are caused by opaque interstellar dust which conceal large numbers of stars; his photographic atlas of the Milky Way is a classic work.

E. E. Barnard took this photograph of Comet Morehouse in 1908.

Sherburne W. Burnham used the 40-inch Refractor to measure orbits of stars around each other, providing fundamental knowledge of stellar masses.

Otto Struve made major contributions in the field of stellar spectroscopy, using a spectroscope attached to a telescope to determine the chemical nature and other properties of stars. He also discovered widespread interstellar clouds of very tenuous gas in the plane of the Milky Way Galaxy.

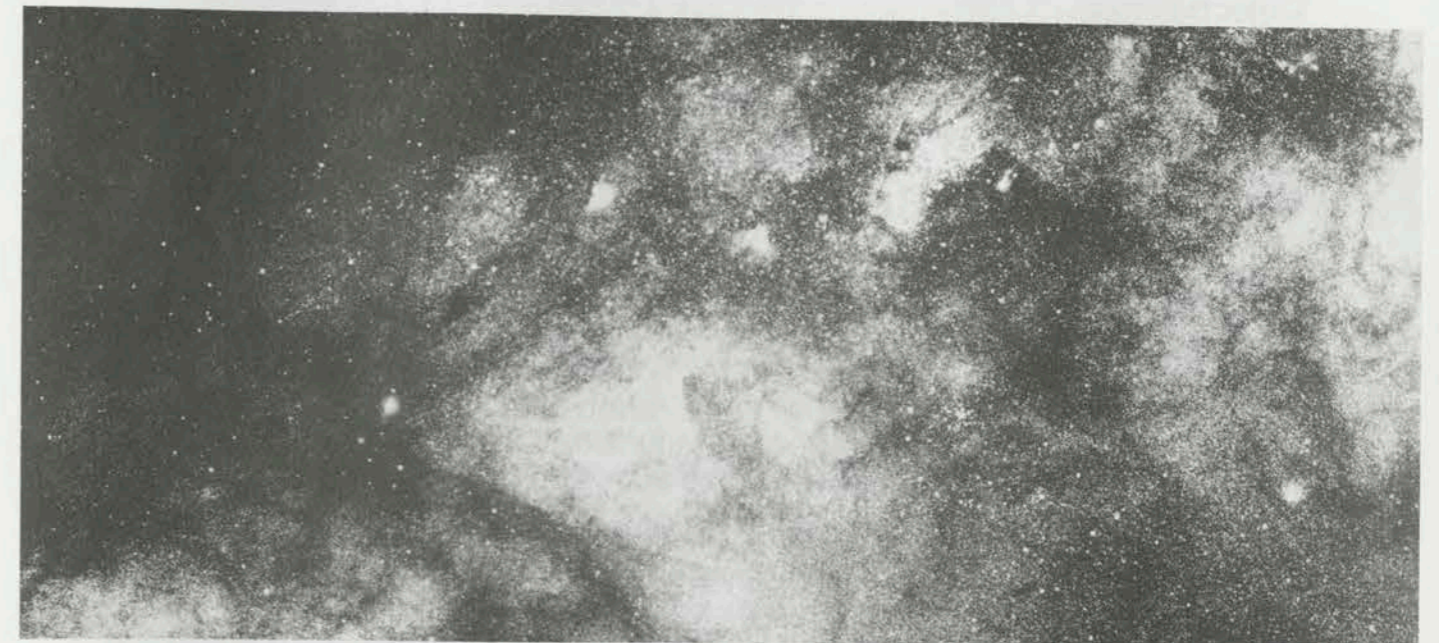

M92, a beautiful globular cluster of stars in Hercules. Electronic photograph by a University of Chicago astronomer at Whipple Observatory (Smithsonian CfA).

Bengt Strömgren added greatly to our understanding of such interstellar gas clouds, especially those surrounding very hot stars. In addition, he pioneered work on the physical nature of stars.

Gerard Kuiper is best known for his discoveries and theories about the solar system. Kuiper discovered carbon dioxide in the atmosphere of Mars; he also discovered the fifth moon of Uranus and the second moon of Neptune.

W. Albert Hiltner discovered that interstellar dust particles cause a slight polarization of starlight, which can be used to understand better the particles and their environment, as well as mapping the magnetic field in the Milky Way.

The stuff of galaxies: thousands of stars, glowing gas, star clusters, and vast clouds of dark interstellar dust that block light from more distant stars. All are seen in this Milky Way close-up.

Subrahmanyan Chandrasekhar studied the behavior of dying stars called white dwarfs, which led to an understanding of the maximum mass such stars can have (now known as "The Chandrasekhar Limit"). He won the Nobel Prize in Physics in 1983 for his theoretical studies of the physical processes concerning the structure and evolution of stars.

William W. Morgan established precise classification systems for the spectra of stars and the forms of galaxies. He significantly improved methods used to determine stellar distances and demonstrated the existence of supergiant galaxies. With data obtained with the 40-inch Refractor between 1937 and 1951, Morgan deduced the spiral nature of the Milky Way Galaxy. Morgan published several spectroscopic atlases, including the Revised MK Atlas for Stars Earlier than the Sun, in 1978, a classic work of stellar spectroscopy.

INFRARED RADIATION

Until relatively recently, astronomers have been limited to studying objects that either emitted or reflected visible light. Astronomers today are increasing our knowledge of the Universe by studying forms of radiation invisible to the eye, including gamma rays, X-rays, ultraviolet, infrared, and radio waves. Although dust blocks visible light from objects such as young stars, edge-on galaxies, and the center of our own galaxy, infrared and radio waves penetrate the dust and allow astronomers to study these sources.

Nearly everything in the Universe, from the coldest clouds of interstellar dust to the jets from centers of active galaxies, glows in infrared radiation. Objects too cool to glow visibly may shine brightly in infrared radiation.

Beginning in 1898, Hale and his colleagues began to measure infrared radiation from celestial bodies. They successfully detected Jupiter and Saturn and the stars Vega and Arcturus with a 24-inch telescope.

MODERN INFRARED RESEARCH

Yerkes Observatory has maintained a leadership role in the development of instruments for the study of infrared radiation. Infrared detectors are carried aloft as attachments to a 36-inch reflector aboard the Kuiper Airborne Observatory (KAO), named in honor of Gerard Kuiper, a former Yerkes Observatory director. The plane, a modified C141-A, is operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). It cruises at altitudes of up to 45,000 feet where the air is thin and dry enough to permit detection of infrared radiation blocked elsewhere by atmospheric moisture.

Yerkes researchers are active in developing Project SOFIA (Stratospheric Observatory for Infrared Astronomy), which will use a 97-inch reflector in a Boeing 747-SP. SOFIA will gather seven times as much infrared radiation as the KAO and provide images that are three times sharper.

At Yerkes Observatory, liquid nitrogen is poured into an instrument which will be used to detect infrared radiation.

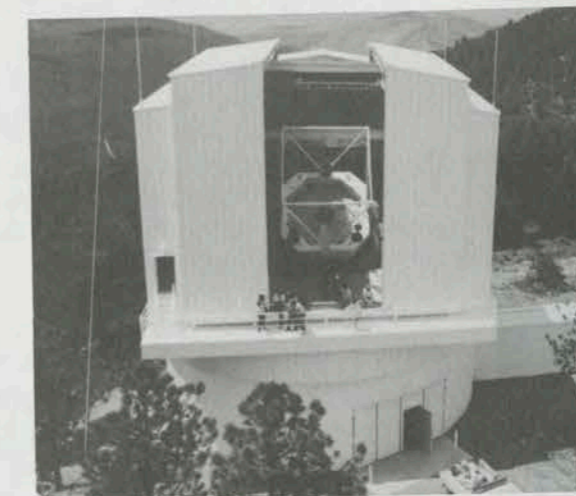

KAO and Yerkes Observatory staff pump liquid helium into an infrared detector system shortly before it is carried aloft on telescope aboard the Kuiper Airborne Observatory.

THE APACHE POINT OBSERVATORY

Yerkes Observatory personnel develop detectors and other instruments for mountain top observatories where observations are less impeded by the atmosphere. The University of Chicago is a member of the Astrophysical Research Consortium (ARC) which operates such an observatory near Sunspot, New Mexico. Here, at the Apache Point Observatory, astronomers use a 3.5-meter telescope to study infrared and visible light.

The innovative 3.5-meter telescope is designed to spare researchers the time and expense of travel to its remote mountaintop location; it can be operated with a computer from any place on Earth that has a computer link. Yerkes faculty, graduate students, and technicians develop instruments to expand the information-gathering capabilities of the telescope.

The Apache Point Observatory and its 3.5-meter telescope is located above Alamogordo, New Mexico, near the National Solar Observatory.

MAP OF THE UNIVERSE

Plans call for a 2.5-meter telescope to be built at Apache Point. When completed in 1995 it will survey and measure distances to one million galaxies, providing an accurate, three-dimensional map of the Universe. Data obtained during this vast survey will be processed at Fermilab in Batavia, Illinois.

OTHER MOUNTAINTOP OBSERVATORIES

Different telescopes gather different information. Yerkes scientists conduct astrophysical research at several mountaintop locations, employing instruments designed, constructed, and tested at the Observatory for specific telescopes elsewhere.

Yerkes detectors have been used on the 4-meter reflector in Arizona at the Kitt Peak National Observatory. Similar detectors have been used on Mauna Kea, Hawaii, at the NASA Infrared Telescope Facility and the Caltech Sub-millimeter Observatory. Instruments are under construction for use on the new 10-meter Keck Telescope. One of the greatest challenges is designing instruments for telescopes at the South Pole, one of the most remote, least hospitable places on Earth.

GRIM, a near-infrared imager and spectrometer, will measure the infrared seeing conditions at the South Pole. Here it is attached to the 3.5-meter telescope at the Apache Point Observatory in New Mexico.

ASTROPHYSICS AT THE SOUTH POLE

Despite the harsh conditions, the South Pole is perhaps the best place on Earth to conduct astrophysical research. Summer temperatures average 40° F below zero; in the winter temperatures can fall to 125° F below zero, removing water vapor from the air. The extreme dryness and the high elevation of the continent, about 10,000 feet above sea level at the South Pole, greatly facilitate observations at infrared wavelengths.

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY CENTER

The National Science Foundation chose Yerkes Observatory as administrative headquarters for a major Science and Technology Center created to conduct astrophysical research in Antarctica. The University of Chicago is one of eleven institutions that constitute the Center for Astrophysical Research in Antarctica (CARA). One of four major telescope projects designed for remote control operation is under construction at Yerkes Observatory.

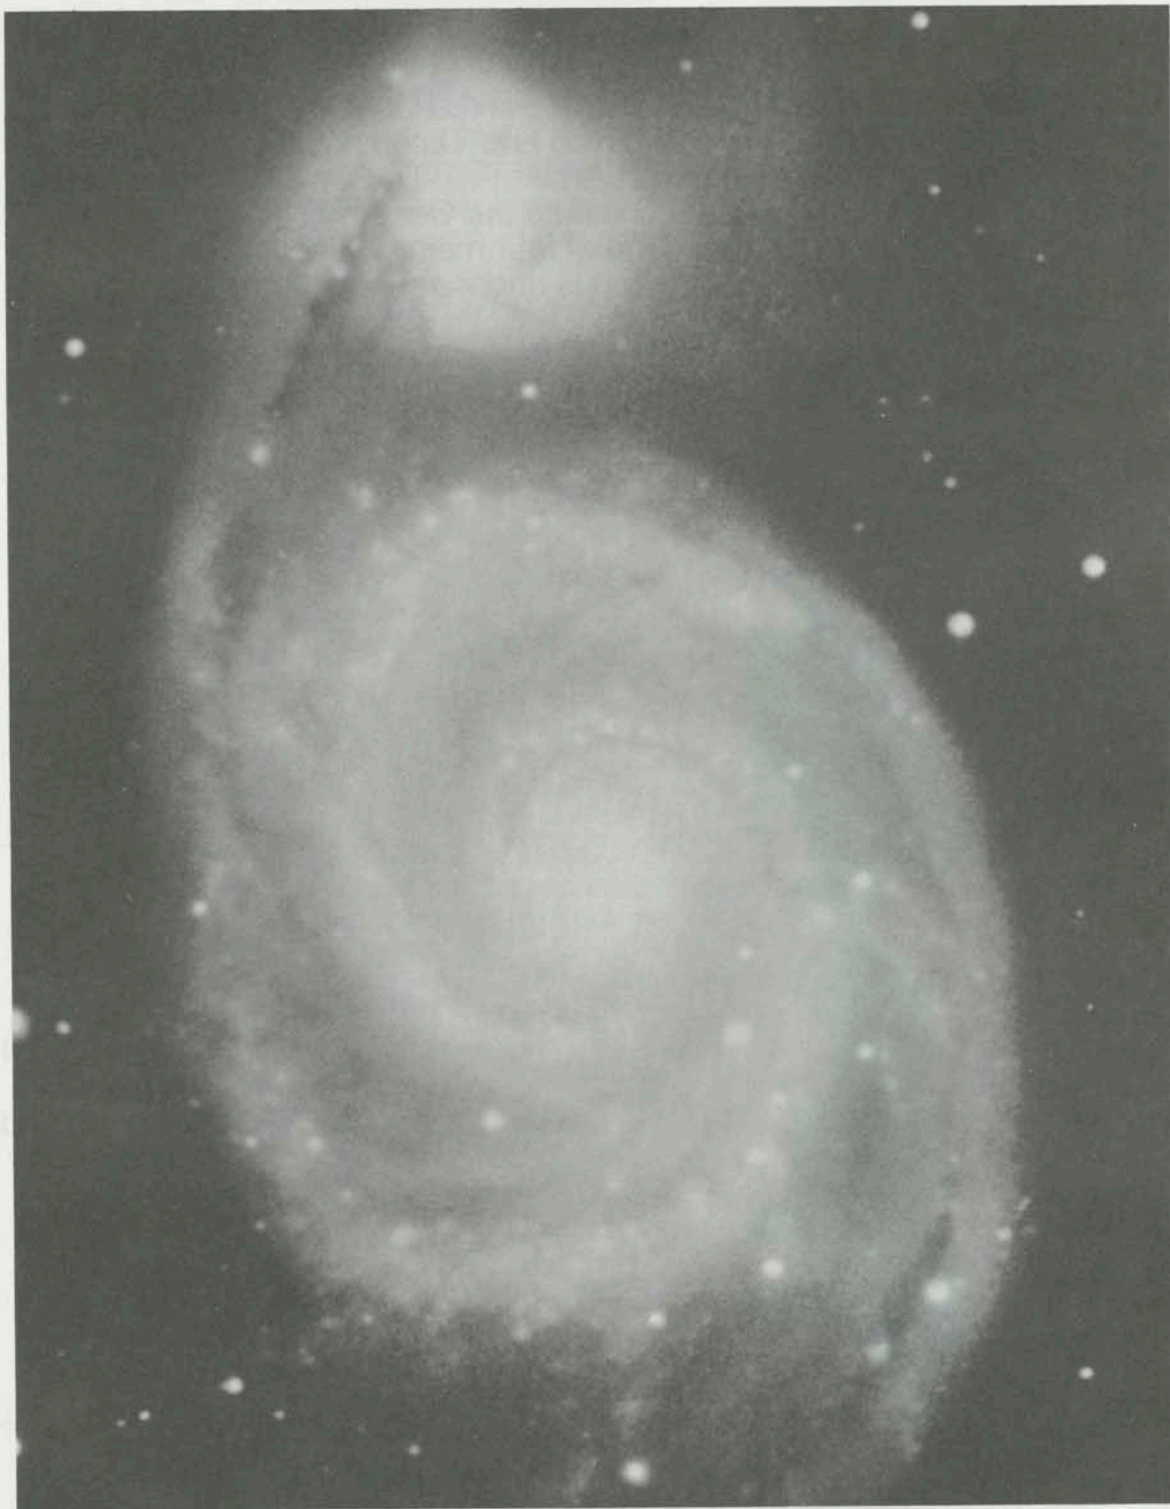

Astrophysicists construct telescopes at the South Pole to take advantage of the superb seeing conditions found there.

CARA EDUCATION AND OUTREACH

As part of the CARA education and outreach program, Chicago high school students learn about astrophysics in a cooperative program involving the University of Chicago, George Williams College, the Adler Planetarium, and the University of Chicago's Office of Special Projects. These "Space Explorers" are the beneficiaries of CARA's commitment to furthering education in the sciences.

FONTANA

Shaw-nee-aw-kee is the Potawatomi Indian word for friend and was the salutation given the John Kinzie party at the first visit of any white person to the village of Chief Big Foot. This is the site of today's Fontana.

Situated on the west end of beautiful Geneva Lake with a background of tree-covered, glacier-formed hills Fontana welcomes you. As in the time of the Potawatomi, Fontana is the friendly village with a myriad of opportunities for a memorable vacation or to live with nature's beauty.

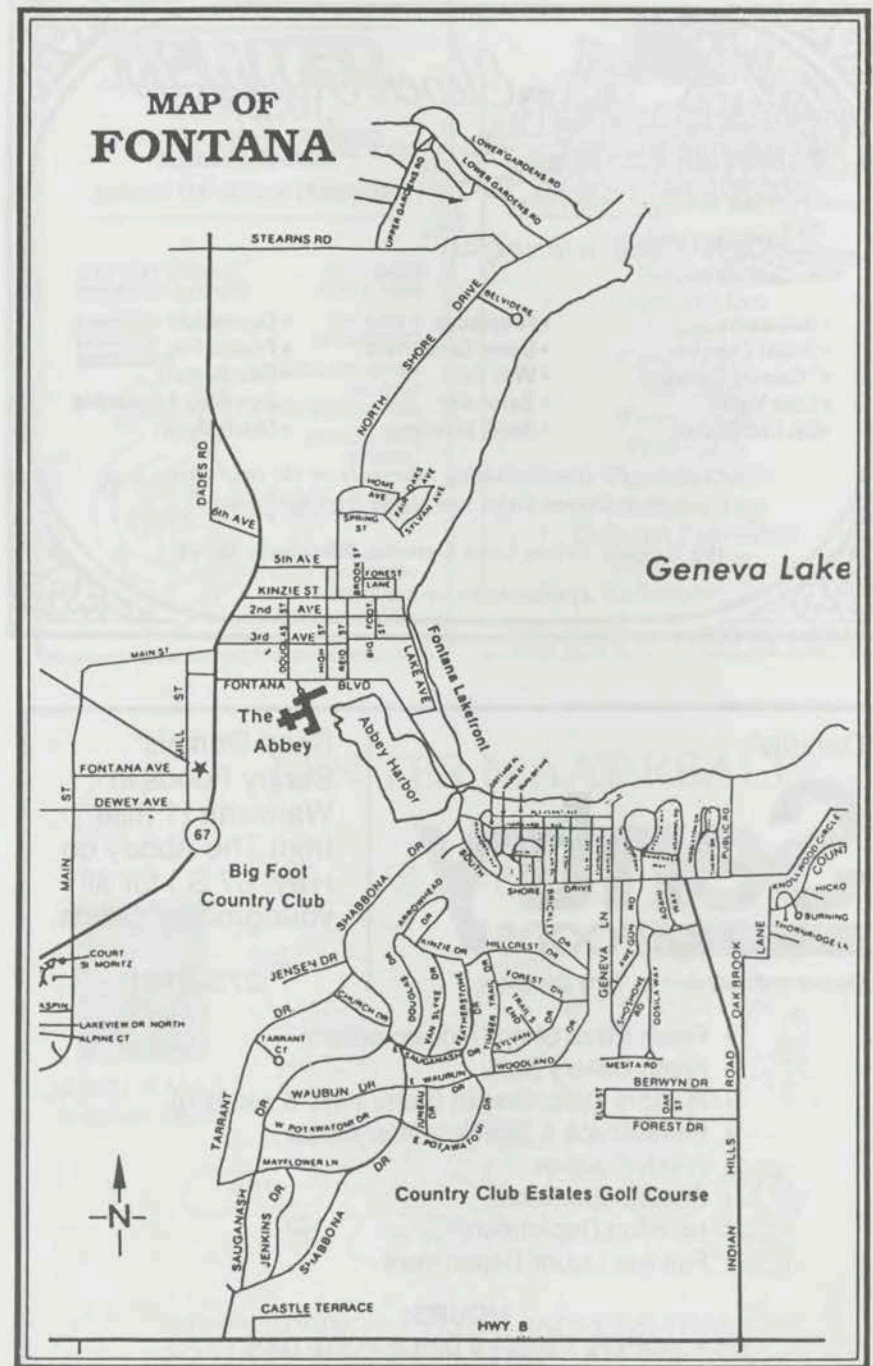

Fontana is home to The Abbey, one of the area's finest resorts, and heaven to fishermen and water sport lovers. It is enriched with three churches, an excellent school and a small, comfortable library which has unlimited resources. There are parks for relaxing and a beautiful sand beach. There are small shops with shopkeepers eager to assist you. The modern, efficient police, fire and rescue departments keep order and minimize emergencies.

Any season of the year Fontana awaits YOU – Shaw-nee-aw-kee – Friend.

Postcard from "Wish You Were Here" by Betsy Shofner-Russell

Some early public transportation is depicted in this 1920 postcard – the electric train, an early car and a steam-powered boat. By whatever means, visitors have enjoyed touring Geneva Lake for well over 100 years.

This penny postcard is dated 1912 and shows the Wayside Inn, which still stands on the south side of the Walworth Village Square. The Wayside was a well-known and popular place to stay in the early part of the century, and still exists as a hotel. Where the porch is in this photo was turned into several stores.

WALWORTH

Walworth is called "the friendly village on the square," and rightly so, for the shopkeepers and residents are always willing to assist visitors in any way they can. Walworth is famous for its many unique antique and craft shops. In fact it is an antiquer's paradise!

For over 130 years Walworth has been known for its tree-lined streets and relaxed pace of living. The charm of the downtown square, with its beautiful fountain, adds to the pleasure of spending an afternoon with friends.

Summertime brings several popular events to the Walworth Square. A chicken barbecue, old-fashioned ice cream social with homemade pies, and the famous corn and brat festival with its sidewalk sales take place on several week-ends. People come from miles around to help celebrate these occasions, enjoying delicious food and helping to support the worthy sponsoring organizations.

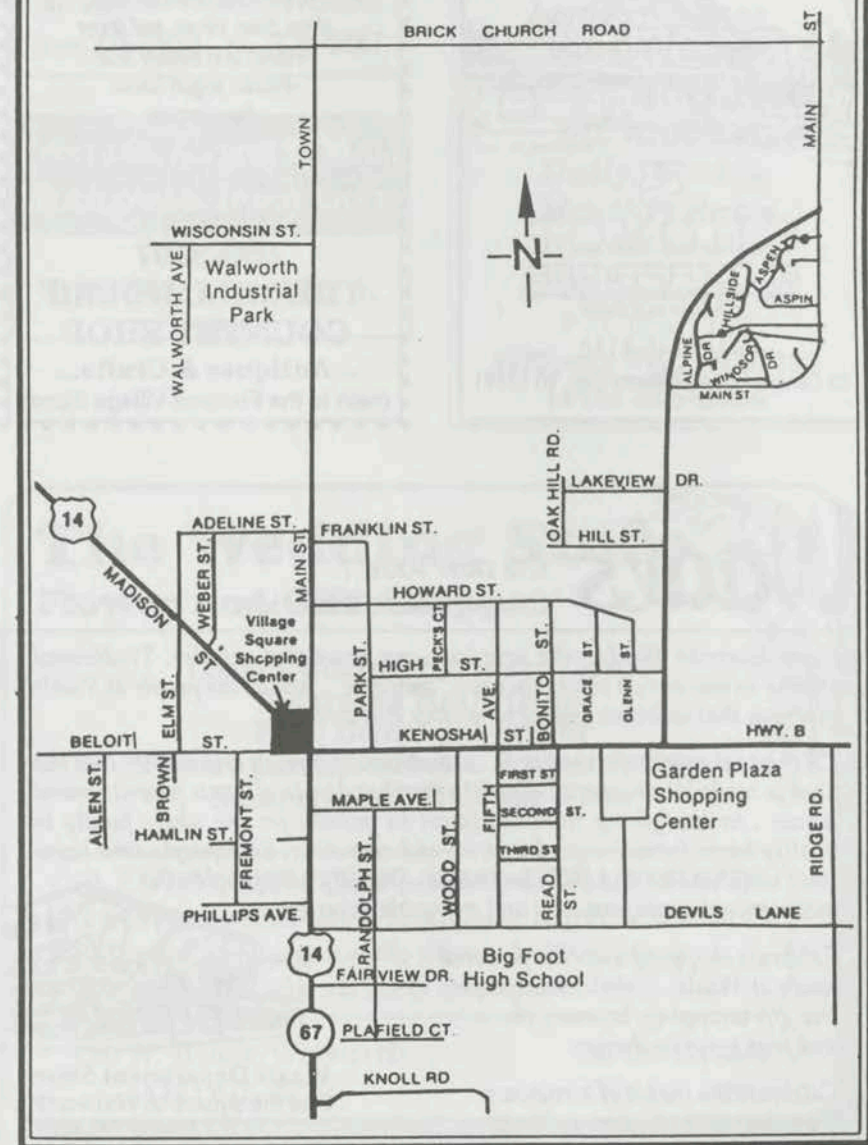

With its close proximity to Geneva Lake, Walworth is truly the gateway to all the lake has to offer... and much more!

Postcard from "Wish You Were Here" by Betsy Shofner-Russell

The electric train brought Chicago visitors from the North Western station in Harvard, through Walworth, to the lakefront in Fontana. The station depicted in this 1910 postcard has been removed, but visitors can still enjoy the beautiful Shore Path, which traverses the entire lake.

Postcard from "Wish You Were Here" by Betsy Shofner-Russell

This 1910 Williams Bay scene depicts some of the many steam-powered vessels which provided transportation for early visitors and residents on Geneva Lake. Note the people carrying their luggage to the boat.

WILLIAMS BAY

Owing to Williams Bay's location along one of the finest lakes in the state and its award-winning lakefront development, it is an attractive summer resort. It is the home of Yerkes Observatory, a facility devoted to research in astronomy and astrophysics and contains the world's largest refracting telescope ever constructed and used for astronomical observations. Gage Marine, which runs the excursion boats on Geneva Lake, is headquartered in Williams Bay, as is the Belfry Theatre, home to summer theater productions.

In the summer Williams Bay grows to nearly double its population with tourists ready to enjoy swimming, boating, fishing and leisure walks around the lake. Winter brings ice boating, ice fishing and snowmobiling to "The Bay," helping to truly create a village for all seasons.

Postcard from "Wish You Were Here" by Betsy Shofner-Russell
Recognize this scene? Yes, it is the lakefront of Williams Bay, photographed for this postcard around 1915. The North Western Railroad at the time carried visitors from Chicago to Lake Geneva and Williams Bay.

Postcard courtesy of Betsy Shofner-Russell of The Country Store, South Shore Drive, Fontana
This building still stands in downtown Williams Bay, and still provides a home for several businesses. Dirt roads were the order of the day when this scene was photographed 70 or 80 years ago, but that didn't stand in the way of the thousands of visitors to the Geneva Lake area who have always enjoyed its beauty and hospitality.

GENEVA LAKE WEST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Since 1972 this organization has worked at promoting and building its communities, starting with Fontana, eventually adding Walworth, and most recently Williams Bay, through projects attended by a multitude of people throughout the year. Projects like Taste of Geneva Lake, Music in the Park, fireworks displays, Christmas baskets for the needy of Walworth County, Candidate Forums, special seasonal celebrations and tourist's guide booklets, such as this one.

The goals of this association are simple – draw more tourism to the west side of the lake and encourage all three communities to work as a group. This is accomplished by promoting the businesses and professions, providing continual tourist information, being involved in the communities and bringing together the various businesses, organizations, citizens and officials at our monthly business meetings.

Browning-Ferris Industries

Recycling, waste disposal- P.O. Box 456 Muskego, WI 53150 • 1-800-232-0860

Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) is one of the largest publicly-held waste service companies in the U.S.A. BFI's primary business is collecting, processing, recycling and disposing of waste effectively and most economically. BFI was awarded the Walworth contract for the next three years.

WHERE IS WALWORTH?

Walworth, the Friendly Village on the Square, is located about 60 minutes north of Chicago's northern suburbs and 60 minutes from Milwaukee, Kenosha and Racine.

Located on the western edge of Wisconsin's Southern Lakes recreational region, one has access to a great variety of both summer and winter recreation. One will find many fine restaurants located in the area.

Parking is free throughout Walworth.

GOVERNORS' BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

ALABAMA

Guy Hunt was born June 17, 1933, in Holly Pond, Cullman County, Ala., of parents Otto and Orene Holcombe Hunt. After graduating from Holly Pond High School, Governor Hunt served in the U.S. Army during the Korean Conflict in the 101st Airborne Division and 1st Infantry Division. He was awarded the Certificate of Achievement for outstanding performance of military duty.

In his first quest for public office, Hunt ran for state senator and was narrowly defeated by 1,000 votes. In 1964, he was elected probate judge for Cullman County, a position to which he was re-elected in 1976. In 1976 and 1980, he served as state chairman for the Reagan presidential campaign, in addition to serving as chairman of the Alabama delegation to the Republican convention. In 1978, Hunt first ran for Governor. While losing the general election to Fob James, he received 82 percent of the vote against two opponents in the Republican primary. In 1981, he was appointed State Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and served in that position until 1985.

In 1986, Hunt was elected Governor, becoming the first Republican Governor in the state since Reconstruction. In November 1990, he was the first Republican to be re-elected for a consecutive term and the second governor in Alabama's history to be elected to a consecutive term.

Hunt is a member of the National Governors' Association's Committee on Economic Development and Commerce and Task Force on Education. He was named one of 11 best Governors in the nation by U.S. News and World Report and the South's Top Governor for tourism by the Southeast Tourism Association.

Governor Hunt and his wife, Helen, have four children.

Inaugurated: January 1987

Present term expires: January 1995

AMERICAN SAMOA

Pete Tali Coleman was born in 1919 on American Samoa. At the outbreak of World War II, Coleman enlisted in the United States Army, rising to the rank of captain.

After the war, Coleman attended Georgetown University, where he earned a B.S. degree in economics (1949) and a law degree (1951). While at Georgetown, Coleman was a John Hay Whitney Foundation fellow.

After law school, Coleman returned to Western Samoa, formerly a trust territory of New Zealand and an independent nation since 1962, and practiced law. He later went to Pago Pago and served as a public defender.

In 1954, Coleman became attorney general of American Samoa. In 1956, he became the first native Samoan to be appointed governor of the territory. During his first administration, he chaired the Constitutional Convention which produced the territory's first constitution.

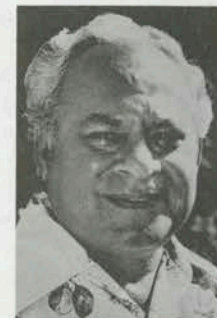

In 1977, he was elected governor. In 1980, he was re-elected to a second term, making him the first U.S. Pacific territorial governor to have been elected to successive terms of office. With his victory in the 1988 gubernatorial election, Coleman also became the first territorial governor to serve four terms in office.

Coleman is currently a senior partner in the law firm of Coleman and Faalevao and president of PTC, Inc, a consulting firm which specializes in Pacific Island development issues. He is the former chairman of the Republican Party of American Samoa and currently serves as the territory's Republican National Committeeman. He currently serves on the National Governor's Association's Committee on Economic Development and Commerce.

Governor Coleman and his wife, Nora, have 13 children, 12 of whom are living, and 16 grandchildren.

ARIZONA

Fife Symington was introduced to Arizona while stationed at Luke Air Force Base in 1968 during his service in the U.S. Air Force. Fife's military career included service in Southeast Asia, where he was awarded the Bronze Star for Meritorious Service. He left the Air Force with the rank of Captain and returned to Arizona.

Symington's civic involvements have included chairman, Phoenix Citizens Police Protection Bond Committee, 1988; vice president of the board of trustees for the Heard Museum; Men's Art Council member; Environmental Quality Commission of the City of Phoenix; the Arizona Children's Foundation; and the Executive Board of Phoenix Community Alliance.

Symington's Republican Party credentials extend back to his college days, when he was one of a few Harvard students who openly supported Barry Goldwater for President in 1964. He is a former precinct committeeman in District 24 and served as Arizona State Republican Finance Chairman from 1982-1984. He has helped raise funds for numerous Republican candidates and was finance chairman of the John Rhodes for Governor Committee in 1988.

Governor Symington is chairman of the Western Governors' Association and a member of the National Governors' Association's Committee on Natural Resources, Task Force on Health Care and Task Force on State Management.

Symington and his wife, Ann, have five children.

CALIFORNIA

Pete Wilson was born Aug. 23, 1933, in suburban Chicago, Ill. He attended Yale University on an ROTC scholarship, and graduated with a bachelor's degree in 1955.

From 1955 to 1958, Wilson served as a Marine Corps infantry officer, then went on to earn a law degree from the University of California, Berkeley, in 1962.

Wilson's public service career began in 1966, when he was elected to represent San Diego in the California Assembly. While serving in the State Assembly, Wilson held the post of minority whip. In 1971, Pete Wilson was elected Mayor of San Diego. In 1982, after 11 years as mayor, Wilson won his first term in the U.S. Senate. In 1988, Californians returned him to office by a 900,000 vote margin. While in the Senate, Wilson served on the Armed Services, Agriculture, and Government Affairs Committees. He has received a number of Watchdogs of the Treasury and the Guardian of Small Business Award from the National Federation of Independent Business.

Among his accomplishments in the Senate, Wilson counts his contributions to the war on drugs, including provisions he authored to increase the military's role in drug interdiction, restrict illegal trade of chemicals used to make "meth" and PCP, and make murder of a police officer in a drug-related crime punishable by death.

Governor Wilson is a member of the National Governors' Association's Committee on Human Resources and Task Force on Health Care. He is married to Gayle Wilson.

MASSACHUSETTS

William F. Weld attended the Middlesex School in Concord, Mass., from 1956 to 1962 before entering Harvard College, where he graduated summa cum laude in 1966. A year later, he received a diploma in economics and political science from Oxford University. Weld graduated cum laude from Harvard Law School in 1970.

After serving as a law clerk with the state's Supreme Judicial Court for one year, Weld worked for 10 years at the Boston law firm of Hill & Barlow. In 1974, he served as associate minority counsel to the U.S. House Judiciary Committee during its Watergate impeachment inquiry. Weld was the 1978 Republican nominee for Massachusetts attorney general.

In 1981, Weld was named U.S. Attorney for Massachusetts by President Ronald Reagan. During his five-year tenure, the office won convictions in 109 of 111 political corruption cases, imposed fines on several banks engaged in money laundering, obtained lengthy prison terms for the leaders of the Boston Mafia, and broke up an arson ring that was responsible for 306 fires in the Greater Boston area. In 1985, Weld's fellow U.S. Attorneys elected him chairman of the Attorney General's Advisory Committee of U.S. Attorneys.

Reagan brought Weld to Washington in 1986, appointing him assistant attorney general in charge of the Criminal Division. Emphasizing public corruption, narcotics and white-collar crime cases, Weld oversaw all federal crime investigations in the nation. He resigned from that post in 1988 and joined the Boston law firm of Hale & Dorr, where he served as a senior partner until his election as Governor of Massachusetts in 1990.

On Jan. 4, 1990, Weld formally announced his candidacy for governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and was elected on Nov. 6, 1990. He was inaugurated on Jan. 3, 1991. Governor Weld is Chairman of the New England Governors' Conference and Co-Chairman of the National Governors' Association's (NGA) Task Force on State Management. He is also a member of the NGA's Committee on Economic Development and Commerce and the Task Force on Education.

Weld was born on July 31, 1945, in Smithtown, N.Y. He lives in Cambridge with his wife, Susan Roosevelt, and their five children: David, Ethel, Mary, Quentin, and Frances.

MICHIGAN

John Engler was born in Mt. Pleasant, Mich., on Oct. 12, 1948. He received a B.A. degree from Michigan State University in 1971 and a J.D. from the Thomas Cooley School of Law in 1981.

Using a campaign plan he wrote as a college term paper, Engler upset a popular incumbent and was first elected to the Michigan House of Representatives while a 22 year-old senior at Michigan State University. His stunning victory made Engler the youngest member ever to serve in the Michigan legislature at the time.

After serving in the House for eight distinguished years, Engler defeated another incumbent and was elected to the State Senate in 1978, becoming one of the youngest state senators in history. In 1984, he became senate majority leader. In addition to his responsibilities as majority leader, he was chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee, the senate chairman of the Legislative Council, and a member of the Legislative Retirement Board of Trustees.

In 1988 President Reagan appointed Engler to the United States Trade Representative's Intergovernmental Policy Advisory Committee and was re-appointed in 1990. Engler also served on the Advisory Council on Education. In addition, he is active with the National Conference of State Legislatures, the Council of State Governments and the American Legislative Exchange. John Engler was co-chairman for the Bush/Quayle '88 campaign in Michigan. Following the President's election, John was named co-chair of the Presidential Personnel Advisory Committee and was recently appointed by President Bush as chairman of the Commission on Presidential Scholars.

Governor Engler is a member of the National Governors' Association's Legal Affairs and Executive Committees and the Committee on Human Resources. He is also a member of the NGA's Task Force on Education and the Task Force on State Management.

MINNESOTA

Arne H. Carlson was born in New York, N.Y., on Sept. 24, 1934. He graduated with a B.A. degree from Williams College in 1957 and did graduate work at the University of Minnesota from 1957-1958.

After working with Control Data Corp., Carlson was elected to the Minneapolis City Council in 1965 and served as majority leader. In 1970 he was elected to the state legislature, and in 1974 he became the minority whip. He was awarded a Bush Foundation Fellowship in 1971 and studied governmental management.

In 1978 Carlson was elected state auditor, and immediately set upon overhauling the agency's operation. He created uniform accounting for cities, counties, townships and special districts and made Minnesota a leader among states in uniform accounting. Carlson served as the secretary of the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency, which involves financing loans to Minnesota's modest and low-income developments. He also served as president of Minnesota's largest pension fund (Public Employees Retirement Association) from 1985 to 1988 and currently sits as a board member. In 1982 and 1986 Carlson was re-elected state auditor and was the leading statewide Republican vote-getter.

Governor Carlson is vice chairman of the National Governors' Association's (NGA) Committee on Human Resources and is a member of the NGA's Task Force on State Management and Task Force on Education. He also serves as chairman of the Midwestern Governors' Conference.

MISSISSIPPI

Successful businessman, family man and community leader, Governor Kirk Fordice is a professional engineer and president of Fordice Construction Company. The Vicksburg firm founded in 1949, specializes in heavy construction and highway bridge construction in Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas.

A former officer in the U.S. Army Reserves, Fordice served his country for 20 years. Most of those years were spent in the 412th Engineer Command in Vicksburg. He retired with the rank of colonel.

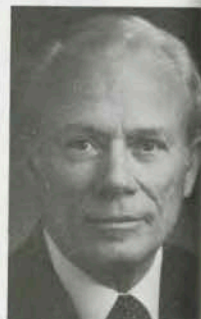

Governor Fordice's education includes both a bachelor's degree in civil engineering and a master of science degree in industrial management from Purdue University. He has been married to the former Patricia (Pat) Owens of Jackson for the past 35 years. They have four children and four grandchildren.

Governor Fordice has served the state in various elected posts: as Warren County Election Commissioner (the first Republican elected to that office since Reconstruction); as chairman of the Warren County Republican Party; as state Republican Party Secretary; and as a Fellow of the Vicksburg Branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Mississippi's economic development has always been a prime concern for Fordice. A former board member of the Vicksburg/Warren County Chamber of Commerce and a former chairman of Vicksburg's Economic Development Foundation, he was recognized for his efforts in 1985, when the Mississippi Industrial Development Council named him Economic Development Volunteer Laureate. Governor Fordice also has worked toward the betterment of his community as vice-chairman of the Vicksburg-Tallulah District Airport Board, a former board member of the Salvation Army and as a director of Merchants National Bank in Vicksburg. Fordice has been named to Who's Who in Finance and Industry, as well as Who's Who in the South and Southwest. In 1969, the United States Jaycees tapped him as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America.

Elected governor on Nov. 5, 1991, Kirk Fordice became the first Republican Governor of Mississippi in this century. He is a member of the National Governors' Association's Committee on Economic Development and Commerce, the Task Force on Health Care and the Task Force on State Management. Governor Fordice is also 2nd Vice Chairman of the Southern Governors' Association.

MISSOURI

John Ashcroft was born May 9, 1942. He attended public schools in Springfield, Mo. After graduating with honors from Yale University in 1964 and from the University of Chicago Law School in 1967, he was an associate professor on the business faculty of Southwestern Missouri State University.

From 1973 to 1975, Ashcroft served as Missouri's 29th state auditor. In 1976, he was elected attorney general and was re-elected in 1980.

Ashcroft served as president of the National Association of Attorneys General, and in 1980 he established the Attorney General's Council on Crime Prevention, a forerunner to the Governor's Crime Commission, which Ashcroft directed as chairman. In 1983, the Reagan administration appointed him to serve on the U.S. Attorney General's Task Force on Family Violence.

Ashcroft was elected Governor of Missouri in 1984. He has placed excellence in education and economic development as his top priorities as governor. A cornerstone of Ashcroft's term in office is the enactment and implementation of the Excellence in Education Act of 1985, hailed by many as the most important improvement in school law adopted in the State's history.

In July 1991, a Newsweek survey of the nation's 50 governors ranked Ashcroft as one of the country's five most effective governors. Governor Ashcroft has served as the National Chairman of the Education Commission of the States (1987-88), as well as the National Governors' Association's (NGA) task forces on College Quality and Adult Literacy.

Ashcroft is the immediate past chairman of the National Governors' Association (NGA) and a past chairman of the Republican Governors Association. He is a member of the NGA's Executive Committee, the Committee on Economic Development and Commerce and the Task Force on Education.

A talented musician, Governor Ashcroft is known by Missourians as a gospel singer, songwriter and recording artist. He and his wife, Janet, have three children.

MONTANA

Stan Stephens was born in Calgary, Alberta, on Sept. 16, 1929. He moved to Montana at the age of 19 and began a 38-year career in broadcasting.

During that time, Stephens was involved in news and editorial writing, announcing, and management of radio operations in Canada, Korea and the United States. He also has served as chief executive officer for three cable TV systems in Montana. During his broadcast career, Stephens received many state and national awards for excellence in news and editorial writing. Most notable is his 1975 Edward R. Murrow award for journalistic excellence in editorials for uncovering a scandal in Montana's Workers' Compensation Program.

Stephens represented his home community of Havre in the Montana Senate for 16 years, starting in 1969. He is the only Montana legislator elected by his peers to every leadership position in the state senate. He served as Senate Republican floor whip in 1977, majority leader in 1979 and 1981, Senate president in 1983 and minority leader in 1985.

He retired from the Montana Senate in 1986. That same year he was recognized by the National Republican Legislators' Association as one of the country's 10 most outstanding state lawmakers.

In January of 1987, Stephens announced as a candidate for Montana Governor and was elected in November of 1988. His four-year term as the state's 19th chief executive included presiding as the Centennial Governor in 1989.

Stephens is a member of the National Governors' Association Committee on Economic Development and Commerce. He also serves as one of four governors on the President's Advisory Council on Intergovernmental Affairs.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Raised in Hampton, N.H., Steve Merrill worked his way through the University of New Hampshire, where he graduated with honors, and went on to earn his law degree from Georgetown University Law School. After serving on active duty in the military, Merrill returned to New Hampshire.

Merrill became New Hampshire's attorney general in 1985. As attorney general, he became personally involved in the prosecution of cases, including homicide cases. He established the Victims Assistance Program, to assist victims of crime through the complexities of the legal system; the Elder Citizens Unit, to address their special needs; and the New Hampshire Drug Task Force, to combat the growing problem of drugs. He also established the Sexual Assault Protocol and Evidence Kit, which today serves as the national model in hospitals throughout the country. Merrill also has been active on children's issues for many years. He has served on the New Hampshire Task Force Against Child Abuse and Neglect for 12 years and served a term as president. He was also former legal counsel to former Governor John Sununu and a senior partner with the firm of Merrill and Broderick in Manchester. He was the recipient of the New Hampshire "Distinguished Citizen of the Year" by the Daniel Webster Council in 1990.

Merrill and his wife, Heather, live in Manchester.

NORTH DAKOTA

Ed Schafer was born Aug. 8, 1946, in Bismarck, N.D. to Harold and Marian Schafer. He grew up in Bismarck, and at the age of 14 began his business career with the proverbial mail room job in his dad's business, Gold Seal Company. He attended the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, graduating with a business administration degree in 1969. He then attended Denver University, earning an MBA in 1970, and returned to family business.

Schafer was appointed vice president of the firm in 1974, and from 1975-1978 served as chairman of the company's Management Committee. He was elected president of the company in 1978. During the next seven years, Ed produced a 42 percent increase in sales. He also helped the company triple its net worth. At the same time, Ed was very active in the National Soap and Detergent Association. The Schafers sold Gold Seal to Airwick Industries in 1986.

Schafer has founded a number of successful business enterprises. In 1976, he and a North Dakota partner started a beverage distributorship, H & S Distributing, in Colorado. That year, H & S sold about 40,000 cases of product. In the fall of 1986, Schafer put some of his profits from Gold Seal into a classic automobile dealership in Bismarck — Dakota Classics. About the same time, he formed TRIESCO Properties, a real estate development company. In 1990, Ed initiated plans to open an aquaculture enterprise in Beulah. Today, Fish N' Dakota uses hot water running out of a pipe from a nearby power plant to grow fish for food.

Schafer is board chairman of the North Dakota Micro Business Marketing Alliance, and organization that has helped countless small manufacturers get started. He also has been very active in Bismarck community projects. He presides over the North Dakota Heritage Group is a YMCA trustee, sits on the Bismarck Recreation Council, is involved with local hospitals, and teaches in the DECA program. He is listed in Who's Who in Finance and Industry.

Schafer has two children: Ellie Sue and Tom.

UTAH

Mike Leavitt was born in Cedar City, Utah, and has a bachelor's degree in business and economics from Southern Utah University. Leavitt is president and chief executive officer of the Leavitt Group, a regional insurance firm with 34 offices in Utah and the western United States. The firm's revenues have grown to nearly $100 million annually, and it now ranks in the top 40 such organizations in America.

Leavitt's business leadership has led to appointments on boards of directors of some of America's major corporations, including Pacificorp, Utah Power & Light Company and Great Western Thrift and Loan. Much of his public policy involvement has been in the education arena. He is presently a member of the Utah State Board of Regents, which oversees Utah's nine colleges and universities. He was chairman of the Education Subcommittee on the Utah Commission for Efficiency and Economy in Government. For four years he served as chairman of the Southern Utah State University Board of Trustees and is currently a member of the Legislature's Strategic Planning Committee, which is devising a long-term plan for Utah's public education system.

In politics, Mike has led numerous state-wide campaigns, including Jake Garn's 1980 and 1986 campaigns and Orrin Hatch's re-elections in 1982 and 1988. In 1984, he served in Washington, D.C. as the regional coordinator of planning and polling for President Reagan's re-election campaign, having specific responsibility for 13 critical Northeastern States.

Leavitt is married to the former Jacalyn Smith and has five children.
