Dear Bob,

It has been a long time since our paths have crossed. I would like to sit down sometime and have a social visit with you.

I have had the opportunity of talking to Elizabeth several times on the phone and am praying that God will lead her in the decisions that she must make in the near future regarding her political future which, in a sense, is the future of all Americans. As you have probably noticed, I have kept quiet about the present situation even though I have been pressured by the secular and religious news media.

When I see you on television, what you have to say is so apropos and your smile and body language is so reassuring. You have been a great personal friend to me and I want you to know how deeply I appreciate it.

I am getting older now and not able to do as much as I did a few years ago, and it has slowed me down some.

Give my affection to Elizabeth.

Most cordially,
