Dear Folks:

Received your letter today dated March 4th, but had time for a change also got one dated the 7th January - so this will give you some idea as to the way my mail runs sometime, still haven't received my bracelet but still hope it will get here before too long.

It doesn't look like I will ever get to Manila, and I did want to go so bad, as I am getting pretty sick and tired of looking at natives and coconut trees and that is all there is around here, at least in Manila you can see a building and walk down a street, and maybe even later on be able to go to a real movie but it still won't take the place of home but it will help out a little.
